SOURCE

1. Officials of the Communist Party of Argentina (CPA) have made extensive plans for their thirtieth anniversary celebration on 6 January 1948. CPA leader Victorio Codovilla will publish a documentary history of the Party which will be distributed before the celebration. The CPA expects to hold a large central conference on 6 January either in Luna Park or in the Prince George Hall in Buenos Aires. Smaller conferences and fiestas have been planned in the provinces.
2. A special CPA commission composed of Codovilla, Rodolfo Ghioldi, and Juan Jose Real recently called on the local Soviet, Yugoslav, and Polish diplomatic representatives to discuss their possible participation in the festivities. The Soviet Ambassador informed them, however, that he would be unable to attend, as he was leaving soon for Russia. Ambassador Sergueev also told the commission that he considered it inadvisable for the Soviet Embassy to officially participate in the CPA celebration. The Yugoslav and Polish Ministers concurred with the Soviet diplomat on the matter of official participation.
3. Should the Argentine Government prohibit the holding of the CPA conference in Buenos Aires, the Communist leaders plan to meet in Quilmes, outside the Federal Capital.
